PLANT OF NEW ORLEANS TIMES-DEMOCRAT DAMAGED

One of the Oldest Newspapers in the South Suffers $50,000 Loss.

New Orleans, La., Sept. 30.—The plant of the Times-Democrat Publishing company was damaged to the extent of $50,000 by fire which originated shortly before midnight in the paper warehouse on the first floor of the building.

It was only a few moments before the entire structure was enveloped in flames and several employees on upper floors had narrow escapes.

Other nearby buildings seemed doomed at one time but firemen succeeded in confining the blaze to the Times-Democrat plant and a warehouse in the rear of the building. Estimates place the loss of the Times-Democrat at $50,000, partly covered by insurance. The paper is one of the oldest in the south. All other local newspapers at once placed their plants at the disposal of the Times-Democrat.

TUCUMCARI PERSONALS.

Tucumcari, N. M., Sept. 30.—Dr. R. J. Thompson, local surgeon for the Rio Grande valley, was summoned to the bedside of his wife, who suddenly became dangerously ill while on a visit to the home of her parents at Richmond, Ky. Mrs. Thompson is well known locally as a prominent church worker and club leader.

Mrs. C. H. Chenault, wife of the county treasurer, is very ill at her home on South Second street.

Two new show case windows are being built at the Elk drug store. The cases will be dust proof.

GUERS CATARRH

Also Coughs, Colds, Group and Sore Throat

Kelley & Pollard guarantee HYOMEI (pronounced it High-o-me) to cure catarrh, acute or chronic; to cure colds, coughs, group and sore throat, or money back.

In cases of deafness caused by catarrh, there is no remedy so efficient. HYOMEI is a liquid extracted from the eucalyptus trees of Australia, and is a soothing, healing, germ killing antiseptic.

NOTHING TO PAY IF HYOMEI DOESN'T CURE

A complete HYOMEI outfit consisting of a bottle of HYOMEI and an indestructible hard rubber pocket inhaler costs $1.00. For treating catarrh or any throat or nose ailment, pour a few drops into the inhaler and breathe. That's all you have to do, and as the air passes through the inhaler it becomes impregnated with antiseptic HYOMEI and this soothing, healing air as it passes into the lungs reaches every particle of the inflamed membrane, kills the germs and heals the raw, sore catarrhal spots.

If you now own a HYOMEI Inhaler you can buy an extra bottle of HYOMEI for only 50 cents at Kelly & Pollard's or druggists everywhere.

Synopsis of Previous Chapters.

Boyd Emerson and "Fingerless" Fraser enter Kalvik, Alaska, and meet a young white woman, Cherry Malotte, who shelters them.

Cherry describes the salmon fisheries and Marsh, the unscrupulous head of the Kalvik cannery.

Cherry owns a cannery site. Emerson, George Balt and she go into partnership. Emerson describes his failure to "make good" in Alaska.

Emerson kisses Cherry goodbye. Balt, Fraser and Emerson nearly lose their lives in Katmai pass and miss the steamer at Katmai on their way out to get capital.

After dreadful privations they catch the boat at Kodiak and are soon en route for Chicago. Emerson seeks Miss Mildred Wayland. She and Emerson are engaged. He later threatens Wayland, a millionaire. Alton Clyde offers $10,000 to ward the cannery.

Balt and Emerson meet Marsh in Chicago. Marsh is a suitor for Mildred's hand. Marsh tells Mildred about Cherry Malotte. Emerson and Wayne Wayland plan a cannery trust.

Mildred learns that Emerson and Cherry are partners. Banker Hill, Seattle, refuses to lend Emerson $100,000. Cherry, who has arrived in Seattle, accepts a dinner invitation from Hilliard.

Cherry discovers that Emerson is to marry Mildred. Marsh causes annoying delays for Emerson's party. To come refuses Emerson a loan. Clyde suggests that Cherry can get the loan from Hilliard.

Emerson engages Cherry by criticizing her friendly relations with Hilliard. Cherry sees Hilliard, who unexpectedly furnishes the money. Marsh causes a strike, delaying the loading of Emerson's machinery.

Balt's fishermen fight the strikers. Fraser shoots a striker and impersonates Emerson, for whom a warrant is issued.

Emerson escapes to Kalvik. Marsh follows. Fraser is released and returns. Emerson's machinery is tampered with.

Marsh builds a trap to prevent salmon from reaching Emerson's cannery. He is mysteriously stabbed. Emerson is accused.

Salmon begin their run. But Marsh hires Emerson's fishermen. Clyde threatens to sell his stock. Fraser is noncommittal to Emerson concerning Cherry's early life.

Balt threatens to kill Marsh. Cherry gets a crew of Indians to help Emerson pack his salmon catch. Emerson suspects Constantine, Cherry's Indian servant, of attempting to kill Marsh. Cherry tells Emerson she loves him.

Emerson's fishing crews fight Marsh's. Wayland and Mildred arrive at Kalvik. Emerson tells Mildred his cannery may be a failure. She takes little interest in his work.

Wayland approves of Marsh's crooked methods in fighting Emerson and threatens to crush him financially. The salmon fill Emerson's traps. Balt cries, "We've won!"

Chakawana, Constantine's pretty sister, has disappeared. Cherry asks Mildred to help Emerson and denounces Marsh. Constantine learns Marsh wants to marry Mildred. Mildred becomes jealous of Cherry.

Mildred jilts Emerson, and her engagement to Marsh is annulled. Wayland buys $10,000 worth of stock in Emerson's cannery, owned by Clyde and Mildred. Marsh attacks Cherry's character. Cherry tells Emerson she loves him.

"Nothing doing in the helms business," replied the adventurer. "I couldn't stand the exposure."

"They were cold, eh?"

"Yep! They weathered me out."

"Did you really meet any of those people?"

"Sure! I met 'em all, but I didn't catch their names. I made one before I'd gone a mile—tall, slim party with cracked ice in her voice."

Boyd looked up quickly. "Did you introduce yourself?"

"As Chancy De Benville, that's all. How is that for a drawing room moniker? She fell for the name all right, but there must have been something phony about the clothes. That's the trouble with this park harness. If I'd wore my 'soup and fish' and my two galleon evening hat I'd have passed for a gentleman sure. I'm strong for those evening togs. I see another one later—a little maduro colored skirt with a fat nose."

"Miss Berry."

"I'm glad to meet her. I offered her out of a rowboat and told her I was Mr. Yonkers of New York. We was breezing along on the bit till Clyde broke it up. He called me Fraser, and it was cold in a minute. Fraser is a cheap name anyhow. I'm sorry I took it."

"Do you mean to say it isn't your real name?" asked his companion in genuine bewilderment.

"Now! Switzer is what I was born with. Say it slow and it sounds like an air brake, don't it? I never won a bet as long as I packed it around, and Fraser hasn't got it beat by more than a lip."

prepared. A scene before the other passengers of the Grande Dame was not to be thought of. Besides, if the young man were roughly handled it would make him a martyr in Mildred's eyes. He talked over the matter with Marsh, who suggested that the sight-seers should dine ashore and spend the evening with him at the plant. With only Mildred and her father left on the yacht there would be no possibility of scandal, even if Emerson were mad enough to force an interview.

"And what is more," declared Mr. Wayland, "I shall give orders to clear on the high tide. That fellow is a menace, and the sooner Mildred is away from him the better. You shall go with us, my boy."

But when he went to Mildred to explain the nature of his arrangements he found her in a furious temper.

"Why did you announce my engagement to Mr. Marsh?" she demanded angrily. "The whole ship is talking about it. By what right did you do that?"

"I did it for your own sake," said the old man. "This whelp Emerson has made a fool of you and of me long enough. There must be an end to it."

"But I don't love Willis Marsh!" she cried. "You forget I am of age."

"Nonsense! Willis is a fine fellow. He loves you, and he is the best business man for his years I have ever known. If it were not for this foolish boy and girl affair you would return his love. He suits me, and—well, I have put my foot down, so there's an end of it."

"Do you intend to force me to marry him?"

Mr. Wayland recognized the danger signal.

"Absurd! Take all the time you wish. You'll come around all right. That reprobate you were engaged to defied me and defied that woman."

He told of his stormy interview with Boyd, concluding: "It is fortunate we found him out, Mildred. I have guarded you all my life. I have lavished everything money could buy upon you. I have built up the greatest fortune in all the west for you. I have kept you pure and sweet and good—and to think that such a fellow should dare!" Mr. Wayland choked with anger. "The one thing I cannot stand in a man or a woman is immorality. I have lived clean myself, and my son shall be as clean as I."

"Did you say that Boyd threatened to come aboard this evening?" questioned the girl.

"Yes. But I swore that he should not."

"Then he'll come," said Mildred. It was twilight when Willis Marsh was rowed out to the yacht. He found Mr. Wayland and Mildred seated in deck chairs enjoying the golden sunset while the old man smoked. Marsh explained that he had excused himself from his guests to go whither his inclination led him and drew his seat close to Mildred, rejoicing in the fact that no one could gainsay him this privilege. Moreover, he had won the unfaltering loyalty of Wayne Wayland, the dominant figure of the west. Nothing could keep him now from the success his ambition demanded.

His complaisant enjoyment was interrupted at last by the approach of the second officer, who announced that a lady wished to see Mr. Wayland.

"A lady?" asked the old man in surprise.

"Yes, sir. She came alongside in a small boat just now with some natives. I stopped her at the landing, but she says she must see you at once."

"Ah, that woman again!" Mr. Wayland's jaws snapped. "Tell her to be gone. I refuse to see her."

"Very well, sir." The mate turned, but Mildred said suddenly: "Wait! Why don't you talk to her, father?"

"That creature? I have nothing to say to her."

Mildred leaned forward and called to the ship's officer: "Show her up. I will see her."

"Mildred, you mustn't talk to that woman!" her father cried.

TWO MORE POLICEMEN DROPPED FROM THE FORCE.

At a special meeting of the police commission driver Jack Breeding, of the police station "black Maria," and patrolman W. E. Renspear, formerly of the plaza beat, were dismissed from the service. The reason given is said to have been "conduct unbecoming an officer on duty." The meeting was attended by Z. T. White, J. B. Brady, Frank Simmons and chief B. F. Jennings. Renspear and Breeding have under suspension for the past week, according to the chief.

KEEP THE KIDNEYS WELL

Health Is Worth Saving, and Some El Paso People Know How to Save It.

Many El Paso people take their lives in their hands by neglecting the kidneys when they know these organs need help. Sick kidneys are responsible for a vast amount of suffering and ill health, but there is no need to suffer nor to remain in danger when all diseases and aches and pains due to weak kidneys can be quickly and permanently cured by the use of Doan's Kidney Pills. Here is an El Paso citizen's recommendation:

William Bryce, 1229 E. Missouri St., El Paso, Tex., says: "I know that Doan's Kidney Pills are an excellent remedy, as they have been used in my family with excellent results. A number of my friends have also taken them and speak highly in their favor. Doan's Kidney Pills can be procured at Kelly & Pollard's Drug Store and should be kept in every home."
